

Abstract

The disclosure describes techniques for use in a remote patient care system such as a remote patient care system that connects patients and health care professionals over a network 5 using video conferencing.